LIVE ART ORGANISATIONS BENEFIT FROM ARTS COUNCIL ENGLAND AWARD

A consortium led by Artsadmin in collaboration with Home Live Art and Live Art Development Agency is one of 62 successful applicants who will receive funding from Arts Council England as part of the Catalyst scheme. All three organisations work across performance, live art and the visual arts.

The scheme, Catalyst Arts: building fundraising capacity, supports organisations to work together collectively and collaboratively in consortium to develop innovative and efficient solutions to addressing fundraising development needs.

Despite a competitive field with over 160 applications, the consortium has been awarded £117,600 of investment. The award will support a two-year programme of development, audience and funding research, trialling new methods of fundraising and implementing creative approaches to individual and commercial giving.

Judith Knight, Director of Artsadmin said:

"We are delighted to have received this investment from Arts Council England and that experimental arts practice has been recognised and supported by the Catalyst scheme. Artsadmin, Home Live Art and Live Art Development Agency believe that together we can make a stronger case for support for our organisations, for the innovative artists we work with and ultimately for our audiences."
